The banks had only one change to report yesterday, that was in exchange; there is still the same slackness in calls for money still the same slackness in calls for money and commercial paper is excited with the bank vanits heavy with surplus—and from the indifference shown, almost superfluous—money. Exchange quoted New York and eastern demand buying at par, southern sight at ½ discount, selling at ½ premium; New Orleans buying at ½ discount, selling at par. The New York Times, of Saturday, reported: "The following were the rates of exchange on New York at the undermentioned cities: Savannah, buying ½, selling exchange on New York at the undermentioned cities; Savannah, buying ½, selling ¼; Charleston, easy; buying par to ½, selling ¼ premium; Cincinnati, quiet; buying par, selling 1-10 premium; St. Louis, ½ premium; Chicago, ½ premium, and New Orleans, commercial 3-16, bank ¼." A sale of Memphis gas stock, 8000, was made at 95 on Monday evening, yesterday holders were asking 96. Nothing was reported of Tennessee new issue, it is understood to be worth 35, and that has been refused for it. The New York Bulletin, of Saturday, reported: "Exporters and speculators remain quiet, and the current small demand comes entirely from home consumptive sources, with buyers showing much of the old indifference, and refusing to anticipate their wants to any extent. For future delivery there has been a less active market, and with the exception of a few ordinary and momentary fluctuations prices generally tended downward. The influences under which the depression was developed were to be found in the adverse tenor of the cable advices, which, through both private and public sources, indicate a weak market abroad, while, at the same time, the receipts at New Orleans have been of sufficient magnitude to increase the downward turn of values. The offerings were pretty full, including, it is said, a considerable unloading by leading 'bulls' and some further short saies, but against this there was a fair call to cover, in part on southern account, and this no doubt was a neutralizing point tending to prevent a more serious break. The Chronicle, of the same day, says: "The continued large receipts of the past week were expected, but the information we get leads to the belief that the coming week will show a considerable falling off. If this is not realized, crop estimated mates will of course have to be again re Our reports would indicate that Mobile is about exhausted; Savannah the same; Charleston may continue in excess of last year for one or two weeks; New Orleans will drop to 35,000 or 40,000 bales; Galvestion may be for a time somewhat in excess of las year. It is expected that as soon as the late rush from the upper tributaries is over the falling off in receipts will be very marked.
